The Electric League of Maryland has some recommendations for people who need Continuing Education hours. Please read on!

The League tries to provide two seminars per year for credits toward continuing education needed for the State Licensing Renewal Periods – our seminars are 2.5 hours each for a total of five hours.

The seminars are offered at a reasonable fee of $20 per hour and are for anyone who wants to participate in earning CEU credits and increasing code knowledge.

These seminars are coordinated with other organizations that provide economic incentives as a benefit for being a member of those partnering organizations – such organizations as IAEL, IEC, ABC, IBEW, IEE, Harford Apprenticeship Training, and Capital TriState, to name a few.

ELM (Electric League of Maryland) also awards fluke meters, tools, and equipment to the highest average apprenticeship students (graduating journeypersons) that have been enrolled in the Federal or State recognized, approved apprenticeship program. The recipients also receive a free membership in the League for one year.

As of June 1, 2024, ELM has finished their half-year classes and will offer their next CEU seminar in October 2024. Look for the registration forms that detail our seminar in the next issue of News and Notes in September.

For your convenience, here are some names and numbers of persons and organizations that may be able to help you get CEU's in the meantime. Please check out the websites of these organizations for further information.
